Jones Waldo Grows Park City Office with Addition of Two Local Attorneys

PARK CITY— Jones Waldo is pleased to announce that it is continuing its expansion in the Park City market with the recent addition of two Park City based real estate and litigation attorneys, Scott DuBois and Nick Frost. Scott and Nick were formerly with the firm Wrona DuBois, PLLC.

“The firm is excited to welcome Scott and Nick as attorneys in our Park City office,” said Keven Rowe, firm president. “Adding Scott and Nick to our experienced bench of real estate and litigation attorneys allowing us to strengthen our position in Park City and continue to better serve our clients.”

Throughout his career Scott has practiced in complex commercial litigation, real estate, construction and business disputes. Scott also has substantial experience in negotiation and documentation of real estate transactions, development agreements, commercial leases, and construction contracts. He advises several companies and HOAs on all aspects of their businesses.

Nick’s practice centers around estate work. Nick has developed a well-deserved reputation and significant client base in both Park City and the Heber Valley. Nick is a great addition to the firm and we are excited to have him as part of the team.
